LOYALTY TO OUR COUNTRY

Rev. J. W. Wilson Preaches a Stirring Sermon on the Subject.

PRAISES FOR SOLDIERS IN THE PHILIPPINES

Criticism for Those Who Hamper the Government by Withholding Support in Times That Try Men's Souls.

In lieu of the regular prayer meeting yesterday morning at the First Congregational church a special patriotic service was held, which was attended by a congregation that almost completely filled the handsome edifice. Appropriate to the occasion the pastor, Rev. J. W. Wilson, delivered a forceful sermon on the subject "Loyalty to Our Country." The address was replete with patriotic sentiments. The church was handsomely decorated with the national colors, a large flag being suspended across the chancel.

Rev. Wilson prefaced his sermon with a short address, in which he explained the reason for the patriotic service. He said it had been arranged for the purpose of impressing a lesson of loyalty; also to give expression to the appreciation of the heroism and self-sacrifice of the soldiers now in the field. He spoke in feeling terms of the young men from this city now in the Philippines, in whom the members of his congregation had an especial interest.

Special reference was made by Mr. Wilson to Paul Pugh, whose recent death from fever was cabled from Manila. He told of the young man's eagerness to go to the front when the call for men came and how nothing could keep him at home. He mentioned his case as being one of rare courage and a glowing example of the exhibition of the spirit of loyalty and love of country.

Preceding this opening address the choir sang "The Star Spangled Banner" and at the close of the service "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground" was rendered.

For his sermon proper Rev. Mr. Wilson took as his text Judges v. 23, "Curse ye Meroz, said the angel of the Lord; curse ye bitterly the inhabitants thereof; because they came not to the help of the Lord, to the help of the Lord against the mighty." The opening part of his sermon referred to the struggle of the Israelites under Deborah for deliverance from the oppression of the Canaanites, which showed that the inhabitants of Meroz did not respond to the call to arms by Deborah, and that they were too much engrossed in their own affairs to give attention to the needs of the city, hence their destruction. Continuing he showed that there had been many in all great national crises who had possessed the spirit of the inhabitants of Meroz, and who, by inactivity and indifference, in all the great crises through which our nation has passed he said there have been many like the men of Meroz who have been indifferent to the perils of their country. Continuing he said in part:

"Unfortunately, there are intelligent citizens of our nation today who have allowed themselves to become so blinded by prejudice that they are withholding the moral sympathy that a great nation has a right to expect from all her people. There are prominent citizens who suddenly oppose every effort of the government to solve the perplexing problems that have arisen in the course of human events and the providences of God. While our brave soldiers in the far-off Philippine Islands have exhibited a spirit of loyalty and heroic sacrifice, we hear at home the sullen mutterings of the traitor who denounces the government and fans the flame of discontent."

Privations of the Soldiers.
"Our hearts have been touched with sympathy and our souls have been fired with a deeper patriotism as we have read of our own boys in blue enduring the hardships and privations of a terrible campaign against semi-savages, making forced marches through unknown jungles until their clothes are torn and tattered and their feet bare and bleeding, or fording rivers under fire of the enemy and fighting in trenches filled with mud and water, enduring the awful heat of the tropical sun until carried from the battle field faint and unconscious, only to be attacked by the dread fever that claims so many victims as sacrifices in the name of their country, willing that they should be sacrificed to one of the noblest of impulses. We place these men in the front rank of our heroes. And let us add that our citizens are guilty of possessing a spirit of indifference and disloyalty worse than that which called forth the curse upon the inhabitants of Meroz. If the sacrifices of these heroes in just cause does not awaken the deepest sentiment of patriotism."

"There are far too many men in our land who seem unwilling to bear their share of the responsibilities of citizenship in this, the greatest country upon the globe. They should learn the lesson that is taught by the curse upon the city of Meroz. There are men who are loyal in the expression of patriotic sentiment when the soldiers are dying upon the battlefield and in the hospital, but are disloyal in their practices as citizens. Some are disloyal with reference to the revenue laws by which the funds are secured to carry on the war. They are unwilling to do their part in the maintenance of the government. The man who evades the revenue law and conceals his property in order that he may not be compelled to bear his share of the taxes to maintain the government is as much a traitor as the soldier who deserts his regiment or the officer who betrays his command into the hands of the enemy. Grave dangers threaten our nation because of these men. Intelligent citizens are too busy with their own affairs to give much attention to the needs of the city and the state and the nation. They shrink their share of the responsibility. They think they have done their duty when they cast their ballots at some general election, but they neglect the primaries where their influence is needed most."

"We are living in times that are trying the fibre of the nation. The hour of victory is after all the testing time of the nation. It is then that we need to fall back upon the divine wisdom and the divine resources. In the logic of recent events we have been suddenly called upon as a nation to face responsibilities which no prophet could have foreseen a year ago. Our country has been forced, as has been said, out of its isolation on this side of the globe into the great, strange, tangled life of the old nations. The guns of Dewey, of Sampson and of Schley suddenly awakened us to the fact that we are responsible for the future of many millions of alien people. And while our brave soldiers are struggling on the field of battle giving their lives for their country, let us be as loyal and self-sacrificing as they are in our places of duty. Let us not, like the people of Meroz, shrink our responsibilities, but let us be loyal to our country and to our God."

Barber Shops Do Business.
The majority of the barber shops in the city were open for business yesterday morning and no arrests were made at the instance of the Barber's Protective association. The stores in the grocery business seen yesterday indicated that it was possible that information against those who kept their shops open will be filed today before one of the justices of the peace of the county. It is considered doubtful, however, if the association will continue the fight in view of the fact that so many of the members have cut loose from the agreement and decided to keep their shops open again on Sundays.

Charles Runswick Under Arrest.
Charles Runswick, the farm hand wanted on a charge of criminally assaulting Mrs. Michaelson, the wife of his employer, a farmer in Boomer township, was arrested yesterday at Shelby and lodged in the county jail here in default of bail in the sum of $300. The people of Boomer township are much wrought up over the case and Runswick would probably meet with rough treatment if he happened to drift in there again. Runswick's preliminary hearing is set for 9 o'clock this morning before Justice Forster.

WE MADE AND LOST MILLIONS

Daniel T. Hedges, One of the Real Boomers of Sioux City.

HE WILL RETURN TO HIS FORMER HAUNTS

Some of the Facts in the Career of the Man Who Made and Lost Millions—Shows Himself a Business Man of Ability.

SIoux CITY, July 9.—(Special.)—The statement that Daniel T. Hedges is once more to come back to Sioux City recalls some of the facts in the eventful career of this man, who was one of the real boomers of Sioux city and who made and lost millions. Hedges came to Sioux City with his brother Charles in the early 50's. He soon showed himself to be a business man of ability and the brothers engaged in extensive operations of various kinds in Sioux City and vicinity.

But Charles met a tragic end. He had started out to drive across the prairies of South Dakota looking after some cattle they had on the ranges, when someone shot and killed him. At any rate his dead body was found beside his buggy. Who fired the shot was never known. After this D. T. Hedges had to go it alone. He got possession of some property and made money. He erected several large buildings and owned some really valuable farms in the Missouri bottom country. But all of the time he continued in the grocery business and day after day dealt out goods to his customers. He was rated high and was considered to be a substantial, careful business man.

But finally, in company with John Peirce, James E. Booge, Ed Haskinson, John Horvick and S. Garrison, Hedges went into the boom business. He and Peirce laid out a large addition north of Sioux City, and alone he planned several additions in other parts of the city. He bought the land at a reasonable price, but in no time lots were selling for what he would pay for one.

Put in a Cable Line.
They put a cable line to the first addition and lost thousands of dollars annually in keeping it up. But the sale of lots was what they were after. Lots were sold on time, and Hedges would take a note and mortgage. Then he would gather together a lot of these real estate mortgages and resell them in the east. Money came free and easy, and it was not long before these men had millions invested in Sioux City and in California, and in fact did a simply tremendous business. Nearly all paper was negotiated through the Union Loan and Trust company, and all went well until the spring of 1893, when money began to get tight. It was hard to rediscount notes, interest could not be paid and there was a big crash in Sioux City one day. The trust company failed for several millions, Hedges made an assignment for over a million, Garrison did likewise, and so did Haskinson and Horvick. Their various other companies were put in the hands of assignees or receivers and there was a regular panic. Booge and Peirce held on for some time. This was really the beginning of the terrible financial crisis in the United States, and Sioux City is only just recovering from the shock.

Then it was that the various creditors of the Union Loan and Trust company and these men joined together in the Credits Commutation company and carried on the work they had commenced. This company is represented by about 250 banks in various parts of the country and it has borne all these years the affairs of these men under their assignments. Now it is said Hedges has made a settlement with this company and will return to Sioux City.

Since his financial downfall in 1893 Hedges has been living in Los Angeles and whether he is rich or poor no one seems to know. But Sioux City will be glad to see him back nevertheless, as he left many warm friends who felt if the money market had remained as loose as it was prior to 1893 Hedges and his associates would have made millions and Sioux City also.
